I'm a professional writer, editor, and tutor seeking employment on either a contract or a salaried basis. My qualifications for such work are extensive: flawless diction, grammar, and syntax, not to mention spelling and punctuation; a meticulous eye for detail; a strong academic background; and decades of experience working on academic, technical, journalistic, and creative writing projects and tutoring students in the humanities and social sciences. For examples of my writing and editing, as well as a list of the subjects I tutor, please visit my website.

I'm a conscientious and reliable worker, known for meeting deadlines and staying on budget. My interpersonal and communication skills are excellent, and I'm comfortable working both collaboratively and independently. I'm highly proficient in using Microsoft Word and also have experience with Apple Pages and Adobe InDesign.
